

Get Right Ministries- Introduces Get Right Bands, Not Just Another WWJD

For Immediate Release

KENNETT, Mo./EWorldWire/May 20, 2005 --- Get Right Ministries today announced its incorporation and launch of an exciting new evangelistic outreach effort. Capitalizing on the current popularity of Lance Armstrong's Livestrong Bands, Get Right Ministries is introducing its Get Right Bands. The bands are designed to be both an awareness campaign for Christianity, and also provide a means for people to evangelize to others.

The company and its new band goes a step further than the popular WWJD branded products. Get Right bands have the company website address stamped on the inside, and are meant to be given away to someone when asked about their meaning. The recipient of the band can then visit the website, and learn how to "Get Right" with God. The person who gives away the wristband can receive unlimited free replacements by simply emailing the company and telling about each encounter.

"There is a storm on the horizon. Listen carefully, the adversary is waiting to devour our young people like a ravenous wolf. Get right today is out on the cutting edge of ministry making a relationship with Jesus Christ relevant in our modern culture. Way to go guys. Step out for Christ and let's keep our precious lambs in our flock and under God's care," said Glenn Hurst.

"I was introduced to the site today by Glenn Hurst I love the idea behind its mission. I look forward to giving my bracelet to another person interested in learning more about the Lord. I am a relatively new Christian, [for]four years, and love the outreach this offers. I look forward to future site updates. Keep up the great work," said Kathy Rodgers.
