

Multiple Sclerosis Foundation Offers Quality Of Life Grants To MS Centers

The Multiple Sclerosis Foundation Quality of Life Grant Program for 2007 is designed to provide financial assistance to MS centers to expand their current programs and services.

For Immediate Release

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla./EWorldWire/Aug. 21, 2006 --- The MSF Quality of Life Grant Program is designed to provide financial assistance to Multiple Sclerosis centers to expand its current programs and services. Such centers that qualify will be enabled to provide more patients with diagnostic and rehabilitation services, support and social services, education and outreach, and medical care.

“This program better equips us to actively promote quality of life and create a brighter tomorrow for people with MS,” stated MSF Executive Director Alan Segaloff. “The ultimate beneficiary of this program will be the individual with MS who relies on the MS center for comprehensive treatment, professional resources, support, education and information on the latest research advances.”

Further information about The MSF Quality of Life Grant Program and application guidelines can be found on the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation's website at <http://www.msfocus.org>. The director of program services, Tammi Robinson, can be reached at 1-800-225-6495 ex. 38 or at tammi@msfocus.org.
