

Next Generation Continuity Software

COOP Consulting Releases Version 2.1 of myCOOP? Continuity Planning Software

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Reston, VA/EWORLDWIRE/November 20, 2002 --- COOP Consulting (www.coop-consulting.com) today announced Version 2.1 of myCOOP? continuity planning software, developed in partnership with Microsoft using Web-based collaborative portal technology. The new version includes two new options:

- * AutoPlan? - - allows the rapid creation of continuity plans for smaller facilities in an enterprise by simply filling out a survey.
- * Notify? - - pushes short lists of immediate response tasks to recovery teams on their Blackberry or similar devices.

myCOOP? leverages Microsoft's Team Services software to deliver an unprecedented ease of use and exceptional value at a very low cost for all types of contributors to Continuity of Operations (COOP) and Business Continuity Plan (BCP) projects. A simple browser gives access to all continuity planning views and functions needed for teams, including management of documents, contact lists, surveys, discussions, links, search, and tasks.

"Recent feedback from clients, combined with powerful Microsoft tools, has enabled us to quickly create the new AutoPlan? and Notify? functions at a very low cost," said Chris Alvord, CEO of COOP Consulting. "It's a tribute to the flexibility of the myCOOP? design, allowing the rapid addition of very useful planning team functions."
