Reverse Mortgage Document Preparation

Bay Docs Inc. Hires Hanno Ginn As Chief Technology Officer

For Immediate Release

NOVATO, Calif./EWorldWire/Oct. 27, 2008 --- Bay Docs Inc. a document preparation company dedicated solely to the reverse mortgage industry, continues to expand its team of reverse mortgage professionals adding Hanno Ginn to head up its technology department.

Hanno has a unique background in reverse mortgage systems and was essential in the development of the processing, origination, fulfillment, and servicing systems for Bank of America's Reverse Mortgage department (formerly Seattle Mortgage Company).

"Hanno represents the icing on the cake!" states Megen Lawler, CEO of Bay Docs. "As alluded to in a previous announcement, we knew when we brought to our team Alan Clark and Patrick Silver that we were building a team that would greatly enhance our services.

"Our clients should be excited to know that with Hanno's expertise and deep industry knowledge, Bay Docs document systems will be improved to better fit the needs of a growing and changing market."

Bay Docs Inc. is solely committed to the reverse mortgage industry and does not provide forward mortgage services. This dedication to the industry confirms knowledge of the reverse mortgage industry and commitment to our clients. Bay Docs Inc. was established in September, 1994, and solely provides document services to lenders in the reverse mortgage industry. The company prepares loan application and closing packages for lenders who offer the Home Equity Conversion Mortgage (HECM) and Home Keeper loan programs. The firm can also provide the document services for lenders wanting to establish their own reverse mortgage proprietary product.
